

Emma Miller has commenced working with AGA Victoria, as an Office Merchant based in Echuca.

Emma hails from County Kildare in Ireland and moved to Australia six months ago with a dairy farmer from Rochester, Victoria where Emma has now made her home. Amongst her qualifications she holds a Masters Degree in Osteoarchaeology and back in Ireland she was involved excavating and analyzing skeletal remains from archaeological sites. Emma also worked in the family business as a bookie.

Emma's interest in the grain industry comes from her father and from summer holidays spent working for him at Connolly's Red Mills, an agribusiness that specialises in animal feeds. She is, therefore, enjoying learning about the grain industry in Australia and appreciates the opportunity to do so through AGA.

In her spare time back in Ireland she played Gaelic football and hockey but Emma states she has yet to join up with any sports clubs since moving to Victoria and, of course, to decide which AFL team to support! Emma says she really enjoy snowboarding and also skiing (when brave enough) and that all she needs now is some snow!

AGA WELCOMES EMMA MILLER TO THE TEAM.
