

Grower Relations Consultant

Location: Perth

Australian Grain Accumulation Services are buyers of grain and oilseeds on behalf of Cargill and Allied Mills throughout Australia. We are currently seeking a Grower Relations Consultant to be located in North Fremantle, Western Australia. The position is on a casual basis, initially a minimum of 3 days a week commencing in early August 2010, building up to 5 days a week for the harvest period, from October through to February 2011. Following this harvest period, there is potential for the applicant to join the AGA team on a more permanent basis.

The successful applicant will be responsible for:

- Responding to and resolving enquiries from customers and growers by phone, fax and email.
- Ensuring grain and oilseed contracts are completed and recorded to internal and external customer requirements.
- Operating and maintaining a comprehensive database.
- Compiling and distributing market reports.
- Providing support for the operations of the office.

The position calls for a proven self starter who is able to work unsupervised and be a contributing member of the team. Experience within the agricultural industry would be an advantage; in addition knowledge of the grain industry and empathy with rural producers is a definite plus. Advanced computer skills are essential, with Microsoft Office experience an advantage, also strong communication and problem solving skills are essential.

Applications and resumes should be sent no later than Friday August 6th, 2010 to:
